Many Glades-area students were able to meet, talk and touch a professional athlete last week when Lewis Oliver of the Cincinnati Bengals and Jeff Cross of the Miami Dolphins came the Belle Glade to participate in McDonald's Neighborhood Huddles. The athletes' mission: to speak with the kids about self-esteem, morals and remaining focused so that dreams can be achieved.

Middle school and high school students from Belle Glade and Pahokee were transported to Pioneer Park where they were able to ask the athletes questions and get autographs. McDonald's provided lunch for the students.

Mr. Cross has been with National Football League for seven years and he told the students, "It's been hard." He spoke with the students about his life and how he finally made it to the pros. He said he didn't always want to be a football player and he had to work hard to achieve the success that he is presently experiencing. He also told the students he had to study in high school and college to be where he is today.

Mr. Oliver, a graduate of Glades Central High School, spoke to the students about remaining focused. He told the group he had to work hard to be where he is today.

To make the students' day with a professional even more memorable, Mr. Oliver told representatives from the schools he would donate a $2,000 scholarship to the student who is voted Athlete of the Year from each high school. He also said he would make a donation to Lake Shore Middle School students who will take a trip to Europe later in the year.

Van Waddill winner of $6,300 award

University of Florida Professor Van Waddill has been named the winner of a $6,300 award from the state Incentive Efficiency Program for his suggestion to convert unused pasture land into sugarcane research plots. His award is the largest single amount given at UF since the program began.

Mr. Waddill, an entomologist who joined UF in 1975, serves as director of the institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences Everglades Research and Education Center in Belle Glade. His 1989 suggestion to grow sugarcane on 200 acres of unused pasture land at the center has since netted the university more than $252,000, said Jim Farrar, chairman of the Incentive Efficiency Program Committee.

At Mr. Waddill's suggestion, UF/IFAS contracted with the Sugar Cane Grower's Cooperative, Inc., to convert the pastures into sugarcane plots, giving scientists a large-scale research area to study the interaction of sugarcane varieties, nutrition and sugarcane rust.

"Productivity of our researchers has been increased because they can perform research at our center, rather than having to travel to the growers' fields," Mr. Waddill said. "Maintenance costs have been reduced since we no longer have to move pastures."

The Incentive Efficiency Program was established in 1989 to give all state university system employees the chance to receive cash awards for original suggestions that when used, improved efficiency and effectiveness and, at the same time, saved money and brought in new sources of revenue. Since its inception, eight UF employees have received cash awards.

The program is coordinated by UF Personnel Services.

Multi-Cultural Awareness Month was celebrated last month at Lake Shore Middle School and the students learned of the different cultures that shape the world today. Daily activities were held to teach children the importance of learning of the different cultures. The City of Belle Glade has proclaimed January as Multi-Cultural Awareness Month in Belle Glade. The month came to an end with students participating in a parade in the city. ESOL Coordinator Wilhelmenia-Jacobs and other staff members coordinated the month's festivities.

Commission seats up for election

Tammy Jackson
Staff Reporter

It's election time for the City of South Bay and thus far, only one candidate has qualified for election. Commissioner Miranda M. Smith will seek re-election of her commission seat in the March 14 election. Commissioner Michael Jackson and Vice Mayor Basil Anderson are also up for re-election. According to City Clerk Virginia Walker, Commissioners Jackson nor Vice Mayor Anderson have announced their candidacy yet.

Commissioner Smith, 30, a life-time resident of South Bay, said she is looking for re-election because she wishes to continue to work with bringing new industry and businesses into the area. She said with the closing of South Bay Growers in the summer, many people in the Glades area were left unemployed. She said she is interested in helping to improve the tax base, and she's interested in helping the people in the community. She said she originally ran for election because when she returned home from college, she noticed there were no structured activities in the city for the youth to involve themselves in.

Since joining the South Bay City Commission in 1989, Comm. Smith said she has seen improvements and is pleased with the progression of the city. She said since she has been in office, the commission had accomplished many things they had set out to accomplish. One of the proud accomplishments she speaks of is the lighting at Cox Park on N.W. Eighth Avenue. She said she is also pleased with the R.V. park which is presently under construction.

The commissioner said she is also pleased to be working with the newly-formed South Bay Girls Club. She said the club is open to South Bay girls only and concentrates on middle school-aged youths and youth in their first year of high school. "We will concentrate on adolescents in the program," said Comm. Smith.

Comm. Smith is a 1981 graduate of Glades Central High School. She graduated from Florida State University in 1985 with a Bachelor's degree in Business. She received her Master's degree from Nova University in 1994 in School Counseling.

She is a member of the Alpha Kappa Alpha (AKA) Sorority, and vice chairperson of the Florida League of Cities Intergovernmental Relations Policy Committee. She is also a member of the Mt. Calvary First Baptist Church, South Bay.

Commissioner Smith is a drop-out prevention teacher. She teaches and provides counseling to students who have been placed at an alternative center due to discipline problems at school.

Pahokee holds charrette meeting

The statement "We the people", perhaps captured the essence of the Charrette held this past weekend in Pahokee, but the enthusiasm in the air could not be expressed in mere words ... "It was a feeling, a hometown 'meeting in the mind'."

The 'seed' was planted by Vicki Silver, senior planner for Palm Beach County, and nurtured by Ken Foster, chairman of the board of the Palm Beach County Commissioners. According to Pahokee Chamber representatives, without the support and guidance of these people, the charrette would not have grown nor produced.

Prior to the actual charrette, the steering committee met with and interviewed citizens representing all of Pahokee's ethnic and economic segments. The input was then compiled and presented to a large group of county and regional planners, city administrators, citizens and civic leaders on Friday.

A tour of the city, highlighting planning issues, was conducted to give the base group a visual overview to enhance the plot maps, aerial photos and interview information already presented. This portion of the process ended with another compilation of data to be presented to the public this Saturday at a follow-up meeting.

Nearly 200 citizens of Pahokee met for the day to offer ideas, express their concerns, and share their visions. Senator Tom Rossin and Representative Addie Green were both on hand to witness the commitment of their constituents to the tasks ahead of them. But, most importantly, the senator and the representative where in attendance to listen and share in order to promote.

The next and most important step in the ongoing journey for Pahokee and the citizens will be a huge town meeting on Monday, Feb. 6, at 7 p.m. in the Pahokee Middle/Sr. High School auditorium. The basic plan compiled by the steering committee and planners will be presented and will serve as the "blueprint for action". Citizens from every Pahokee neighborhood and other communities around the lake are urged and invited to attend.

U.S. Sugar honored by Governor Chiles

U.S. Sugar Corporation was recently recognized by Governor Lawton Chiles for its partnership with PRIDE of Florida (Prison Rehabilitative Industries and Diversified Enterprises, Inc.) to provide ex-offenders with job training and employment opportunities.

Walter Parker, director of Agricultural Operations and Greg Carlton, vice president of citrus operations, were honored at a reception held recently at the Governor's Mansion. U.S. Sugar Corporation has been involved with the PRIDE program since the early 1980's, when the program was in its infant stage.

According to Mr. Parker, U.S. Sugar manages nearly 3,500 acres of sugarcane owned by PRIDE and works closely with them in the daily operations of the sugarcane farm. Mr. Parker says the inmates are actively involved in the planting operations, and U.S. Sugar handles the cultivation and harvest operations. The inmates receive valuable experience, and PRIDE receives the revenue from the sugarcane operations.

"Working with PRIDE to provide training and agricultural experience is one of the best ways to enable ex-offenders to become productive members of society," said Mr. Parker.

U.S. Sugar also offers assistance to PRIDE's citrus operations. Greg Carlton lends his expertise in citrus production and harvesting. Working in an advisory capacity with the management of PRIDE's citrus groves, Mr. Carlton helped set up a citrus education program for the inmates. "We also inspect the groves, meet with their management, and give them whatever help they need," he said.

Partners with PRIDE have the opportunity to provide assistance in many areas such as business planning, inmate education and training, and employment assistance.

"The support of companies like U.S. Sugar in offering training and hands-on agricultural experience has been a tremendous boost to our program," said PRIDE President Pam Davis.

Ag Coalition holds retreat and visits area sugarcane and citrus operations

Members of Florida's Ag Coalition recently spent several days in Clewiston touring area sugarcane and citrus operations. The retreat, held at the Clewiston Inn, gave members from all over the state a better perspective on the agricultural industry in the Glades.

The Ag Coalition, an informal organization of over 30 agricultural associations throughout the state, has worked together for the past several years to promote Florida agriculture. The retreat is held in a different agricultural area each time to allow the members of the coalition to get a hands-on look at the many facets of Florida's agricultural industry.

Nearly 20 members of the coalition spent three days meeting, touring and enjoying Clewiston's recreational activities. The coalition sampled local cuisine during dinners at U.S. Sugar's Dunwoody Plantation, and Okeelanta's Hacienda. Members also enjoyed a day of golfing and fishing at Clewiston's world famous facilities. Andy LaVigne, of Florida Fertilizer and Agrichemical Association, caught a 10.75 pound bass while fishing with local guide, Tom Peace.

According to Robert Coker, U.S. Sugar's vice-president of community and governmental affairs, "The retreat was quite productive, and everyone left with a very positive impression of both Clewiston and the agricultural industry in the Glades."

Today's society puts many demands (stressors) on our personal and professional lives. Stress can be defined as any situation or condition that imposes demands for adjustment on a person. It helps us to regulate the many changes that occur in our lives. It should be viewed as a necessary function, a series of normal reactions needed for self-preservation.

Humans are never completely free from stress. In fact, we are built to withstand it, even benefit from it, when it arises occasionally. However, day-in, day-out, unrelied stress erodes the body as well as the mind.

What are some of the stress reducers we can easily implement in our daily lives? Stretching, deep-breathing (take a deep breath, hold it to the count of three and when you exhale, let your shoulders down and all your muscles relax), music, think about a favorite flower or song or the ocean at sunrise or sunset, imagine a relaxing scene, invest in relaxation tapes or music, they work wonders. Do whatever works for you.

Since we are people who think, not just feel, we can ask ourselves questions about our possible overreactions:

1. How much significance will this event have tomorrow? Next year? In 10 years?

2. How is this intensity affecting my body, my physiology, my emotions? Does it give me an upset stomach? Tightness in my chest? More joint pain? Headaches?

3. What am I getting out of this overreaction?

Some interventions we can use are:

1. Distance ourselves from the situation if possible. Chill out & cool off, take "time out".

2. Try to see your situation from a different perspective.

3. Slow your voice, lower the volume, write a note.

4. Whatever you used to do, do something different. It's under YOUR control to change it and try a more functional behavior.

During my nearly 25 years as a nurse, my weakness, my limitations, my vanities have all been exposed. But, so have my strengths, my potential and all that's good in me. Nursing and I are still together, because I am truly in love with what I do.

If you ask me what my role as a nurse is today, my answer may be ever-so-slightly altered from what it would be after a stressful day tomorrow. The same goes for each of you. Whoever you are, whatever you do, each of you has a goal in mind for your life. Remember to keep that in focus as we deal with the daily stresses of life.

Until next time . . . stay informed and stay healthy.

Florida averages 80 to 90 thunderstorms per year

By Mike Lyons

When it rains around here, it really rains. Few places in the United States have the torrential downpours that are common in Florida. How many times have you been driving down the interstate when the rain became so heavy, so thick that you were forced to stop your vehicle or pull off to the side of the road?

Florida has more thunderstorm activity than any other part of the country. We average between 80 and 90 thunderstorm days each year. Most, if not all, of those t hunderstorms are big ones.

One weather watcher friend of mine calls those heavy rains "foggy stranglers." Another refers to them as "gully washers." Everyone has probably heard the term "it's raining cats and dogs."

Yet, despite our history as the thunderstorm capital of the country, it has never actually rained cats and dogs. All we get is lots of water, gusty winds, vivid lightning and, every once in a while, small hail.

What else is likely to fall from the sky? How about fish, or snails or maybe live snakes.

At this point you're probably saying to yourself that good old Mike has been standing too close to his Doppler. Fish falling from the sky? Heavy rains accompanied by live snakes?

I'm not crazy or making it up. The weather history of this country is full of examples of weird precipitation.

On the afternoon of June 6, 1869 it began to rain in Chester, Pa. It was a light rain shower. Nothing severe. No thunder, lightning or hail. It had been raining for about five minutes when someone noticed something unusual about the rain. The shower was accompanied by snail shells that seemed to be falling in a slow, whirling motion. Specimens of the snails were picked up and placed on exhibit at Philadelphia's Academy of Natural Sciences.

Just over seven years later another unusual weather event took place. On December 15, 1876 live snakes fell on the south side of Memphis, Tenn. It had been raining most of the day in Memphis. Initially, the rain was light but, in the afternoon, a thunderstorm developed and continued for about 15 minutes. When the rain stopped the street was full of black snakes.

My favorite story is about the two guys who went fishing in Kansas. It was April 7, 1956. Our two buddies were planning to spend the day at their favorite fishing hole. Their fun was cut short, however, when a big thunderstorm swept over the lake. As they were walking home they heard a strange sound coming from the water. A few seconds later fish began falling from the sky. The two men didn't catch any fish that day, the fish caught them.

How did all of these strange weather events occur? The most probable explanation is an updraft of air. As a thunderstorm develops, air is pulled from the ground high into the atmosphere. The updraft can be very strong. Sometimes strong enough to pick up a snake or a snail or maybe even a fish.

The next time someone says it's raining cats and dogs tell them it's better than raining snails and snakes.

Congratulations to Kirchman Oil Corporation of Belle Glade, the first recipient of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce's new "Member of the Month" award. For January's winner, the Chamber's Membership Committee did some research to discover who the Chamber's longest standing member is. Arnold E. "Slick" Kirchman was one of the 32 charter members of the chamber, and Kirchman Oil has been a member ever since. The firm was established in 1929. Shown on the bottom step are Chamber President Jeff Hooker and Executive Secretary Leigh Woodham. On the next step, from left, are Terry and Pete Kirchman. The next step up are Danny and Terry Kirchman, Jr., and on the top step is Tim Kirchman. Future recipients of the "member of the Month" award will be determined by the Chamber's Membership Committee. To offer suggestions, call the chamber at 996-2745.

PIC's Summer Youth Employment Program is filling up fast

The Private Industry Council's annual Summer Youth Employment and Training Program is off to an early start this year and enrollment is brisk, according to Reggie O'Connor, work experience manager.

Applications are being accepted at area PIC job training centers on a first come, first served basis and have already topped 500.

By processing applications earlier this year, we can improve the quality of our summer work program and more accurately match individual youths' skills and interests to appropriate work experience opportunities throughout the county," Mr. O'Connor said.

The program offers income-eligible Palm Beach County youth ages 14 and up a daily mix of classroom training and paid work experience at various municipalities and non-profit agencies.

Also, under a new private sector youth initiative, local businesses will sponsor and/or hire additional youth for unsubsidized summer employment.

By providing private-sector job opportunities to augment the subsidized youth program, our corporate partners play an important role in preparing Palm Beach County's future work force. At the same time, these businesses gain valuable assistance during the summer months," Mr. O'Connor added.

The Palm Beach County Private Industry Council, Inc. is a public/private partnership providing job training, counseling and placement assistance.

PIC is comprised of local business leaders and representatives from government, educational institutions, social service agencies and community organizations together serving more than 7,000 residents annually.

For more information regarding PIC's Summer Youth Employment and Training Program, interested youth may call PIC at 1-800-556-JOBS.

They want basketball coverage

"I would like to know why your newspaper doesn't cover any of the local basketball games in the area?"

I noticed back in the winter you covered the football games, but why don't you cover the basketball games?

We buy these newspapers but there's never anything in them to read. Why can't you support our kids in the local area and cover some of the basketball games, instead of just the bad things that happen?"

Editor's reply: I believe I spend about 80 percent of my time covering positive events that happen in the Glades. If you would look closely at our newspaper, I think it shows.

With our limited staff, we are unable to cover all the events in the Glades. We have three high schools and six elementary schools. We had several people from the various schools who helped us with the football coverage. If you would be interested in snapping a few pictures at the games you would like to see covered, or know someone who would, please call me at 996-4404. Thank you for Speaking Out.

Our roster book lists all members alphabetically with address and phone number and unit served with. This you will receive immediately upon becoming a member of the association. Our present membership is 8,000 plus.

Our bi-monthly publication "Follow Me", our official publication, which contains information of the association and letters and stories from members, will also be sent.

We are proud of our philanthropy, the Memorial Scholarship Fund, whereby deserving dependents of former Second Division Marines are assisted in obtaining a college education.

To keep our association strong, we need the help of everyone. The Marines of the 1970s, 1980s and 1990s must now step forward and assume a leading role in perpetuating the programs and fellowship of the association. After reading this notice, and you still have contact with former Marine buddies, please pass the word on to them. We need all of you. "Once a Marine, Always a Marine."

Black History: An ongoing saga

Terry Thomas

A similar experience and teach each other about the truth, as it relates to the story of blacks in America and the world.

Where our curriculums fall short, we must fill in the blanks and complete the story, or history.

In closing, I invite the community to participate in the celebration of Black History by attending and supporting Lake Shore Middle School's presentation of its Third Annual Black History and Cultural Arts Festival.

Included in this year's festival will be black art, oratoricals, poetry, African dance, fashion, drama and a lot more.

The opening day ceremony is Feb. 6, 9:30 a.m. in the gym. On Feb. 13, at 9:30 p.m. there will be a dramatic presentation in the gym; Feb. 21, an African Fashion Show at 1:30 p.m. in the gym; Feb. 24, field day exhibits will be shown at 1:30 p.m. in the gym and Feb. 25, at 7 p.m. The Lake Shore Banquet will be at 7 p.m. in the cafeteria.

Terry Thomas is a Fine Arts Teacher at Lake Shore Middle School in Belle Glade and President of the Florida National Education Association's Black Caucus (NEA). There are over 60,000 NEA members in Florida. For additional information about the upcoming events, call 996-4960.

Craig King, one of my former students, paid me one of the highest tributes a teacher can receive when he announced to the audience that his decisions to major in journalism, and minor in Black Studies was influenced by his experiences in my eighth grade journalism class at Lake Shore Middle.

Craig, a sophomore at the University of South Florida in Tampa, grasped and incorporated the "seeds" of communication and black awareness, in a very conscientious and practical manner. He is now applying himself, and, is a more effective public speaker than I was, when I was his age. Today we are the best of friends.

There's an African proverb that says "each one, teach one." In Florida, the law requires the teaching of Black History in all public schools.

I posed this true life story to encourage those who are involved and concerned with the forward progress in Black History and culture in Palm Beach County and Florida.

As a community, or individual within the community, it is our "moral" responsibility to protect our kids: We must strengthen families by giving parents greater control over education, enforcing child support payments and getting tough on child pornography.

5. Protect our kids: Let's make it easier to achieve the American Dream, save money, buy a home and send the kids to college.

6. Strong national defense: We need to ensure a strong national defense by restoring the essential parts of our national security funding.

7. Raise the senior citizens' earning limit: We can put an end to government age discrimination that discourages seniors from working if they choose.

8. Roll back government regulations: Let's slash regulations that strangle small businesses, and let's make it easier for people to invest in order to create jobs and increase wages.

9. Common-sense legal reform: We can finally stop excessive legal claims, frivolous lawsuits and overzealous lawyers.

10. Congressional term limits: Let's replace career politicians with citizen legislators. After all, politics shouldn't be a lifetime job.

After these 10 bills, we'll tackle issues such as common-sense health care reform, tax rate reductions and improvements in our children's education.

New boutique opens in Pahokee

There's been quite a bit of commotion lately on the corner of South Lake Avenue and Second Street in Pahokee.

Painting, carpeting and general redecorating has been taking place in the old Vandegrift-Williams Office Building, to make way for a new business.

Little Big Foot Boutique, owned by Trena V. McManus and Maria P. Mills, will be opening on Saturday, Feb. 4.

The boutique is quite unique in that it not only features a pleasant ambience of feminine sights and smells, but shoes!

An assortment of shoes is found in the "Shoe Room" that features dressy, work, and casual styles especially for size 9 through 13, from narrow to double wide.

There are also sandals available and although the shop carries mainly larger sizes, there are also a few styles that start at size 7.

The "Victorian Room" features a wide assortment of frilly, feminine things, from sachets to angels, from pearl-covered frames to hand-embroidered pillowcases. It's a breath of fresh air for the senses.

In the "Boutique Room" you'll find "The Cowboy Corner" featuring things from hand-decorated vests to cowboy figures. There's also "The Home Corner" with unique teapots and cookie jars, and of course the holiday table features gifts for the current holiday.

Valentine's Day will be the featured holiday for the opening of the boutique.

Little Big Foot Boutique will open its doors Saturday, Feb. 4, at 10 a.m., with a grand opening from 5 to 8 p.m.

Winn-Dixie
and Celebrities Fight Cancer!

Winn-Dixie is teaming up with some real heavyweights to take on a killer...cancer. On Thursday, February 7th, 1995, local celebrities will be "shopping" groceries at selected Winn-Dixie stores throughout Dade, Broward, Palm Beach, Monroe, Martin, Okeechobee, and Hendry counties (excluding La Belle). When you buy groceries that day, 5% of the total store sales will be donated to the American Cancer Society. Those proceeds benefit the Winn-Dixie Hope Lodge, a home away from home for cancer patients and their families who must travel to South Florida for treatment. The Winn-Dixie Hope Lodge is free of charge, but needs your help to continue providing a caring and supportive environment for cancer patients. So come on out, meet a few stars and join us in the fight against cancer. Thank you from the American Cancer Society and Winn-Dixie, America's Supermarket.

Baha'i Institute plans get acquainted luncheon

The Magdalene Carmey Baha'i Institute is dedicated to the development of spiritual capabilities in the lives of individuals and families. Recognizing that these capabilities form the indispensable foundation of a community's well-being, The institute is an agency of the National Spiritual Assembly of the Baha'i of America serving the people of the Glades area.

On Feb. 11, the Magdalene Carmey Baha'i Institute will host a luncheon for public servants, educators, ministers, business people, agencies and individuals who work with children and youth.

The luncheon will introduce the institute to the public and provide a precious opportunity for these hard-working individuals to enjoy a moment of appreciation.

Dr. Robert Henderson, a nationally-renowned educator, will address the distinguished guests on the opportunity and obligation each child provides "To Create Tomorrow". He will speak on the critical role of spiritual education in the development of moral capabilities in children and youth.

The institute has begun a children's institute centered on the power of prayer, love and unity. The objective is to enhance self-respect and create a positive vision and approach to life. A women's institute has begun to enable women to shape the character and safeguard the well being of their children and families.

The institute has been established on a formal basis after several years of service to the Glades community. The institute is a growing institution with tremendous potential to positively impact the lives of a great cross-section of the community.
